D-3 When It's All About You: Personal Grief as a Hospice Professional

Helen Bauer, RN BSN CHPN, Consultant & Jerry Fenter, Spiritual Counselor

Now more than ever, it's important to recognize that the grief end of life professionals experience is real. If you're part of a human hospice team, personal grief is an inevitable experience. Feelings of grief and loss related to the world, our communities, and our own families can influence the quality of the care we provide. To bring our best selves to the populations we serve, hospice professionals should know how to identify sources of grief, including the secondary grief that is work related as well as grief milestones in our own lives. Whether you're an informal leader inside your interprofessional team or a leader designated by your job title, you can contribute to the mental and emotional wellbeing of your team. In this session you'll learn how to identify sources of grief, how personal grief can affect hospice professionals and their interactions with patients and their families, and how to mitigate the fallout that comes from personal losses among team members. Audience:

Day 3

Monday, Aug. 2, 2021

8:00 AM to 8:30 PM | Celebration of Life

As healthcare continues to grow and change, many fear we are losing our heart. One way to make certain we keep it is to continue practicing exquisite self-care by honoring and sharing our personal grief and allowing others to support us as much as we care for others. Join us Monday morning at 8 a.m. as we gather to remember those we care for who have died.

8:45 a.m. to 9:45 a.m.

PLENARY: COVID-19 - Lessons learned from Hospice/Palliative Care Team

Tommie Farrell, MD & Lauren Templeton, DO, HMDC, Hendrick Hospice

We will discuss changes made to our joint Hospice and Palliative Care teams in response to the case load and clinical need during the pandemic. Key elements: restructuring of the team and processes, Integration to hospital and hospice needs, discussing code and ventilator decisions, IPU transition.

9:50 a.m. to 10:50 a.m.

PLENARY: Protecting the Vulnerable Hospice Patient

Amanda Abbott, DO, & Celia Murillo, MD & Kelly Klein, MD, Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center

Abuse may be in the form of neglect, financial, physical, emotional, or sexual abuse, and the signs are not always obvious. Hospice patients are among those most vulnerable to abuse. Hospices need to know what they can do to protect their patients from abuse and what is required by law.

11:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m.

PLENARY: Dying Colorblind the advancement of DE&I

Demetress Harrell, CEO, Hospice in the Pines

This influential presentation will change how hospice team members provide care to the dying person of color. While many have begun the dialogue of diversity, equity and inclusion within their programs, we often think all deaths are the same. This presentation will cultivate an action of change.
